The Science Museum

Child is going to the science museum with her grandpa. She can hardly wait! First, they see giant dinosaur bones. The dinosaur is taller than a house! Next, they walk into a dark room full of planets.

"You can touch this one," says a museum helper. She points to a gray rock.

"It came from space," says Grandpa.

Touching the space rock is Child's favorite part. It feels cold and bumpy. Before they leave, Grandpa buys her a toy rocket from the gift shop.
