The Pumpkin Patch

Child is going to the pumpkin patch with her mom and her little brother. It is a crisp fall day. To get to the field, they climb onto a hayride. The ride is slow and bumpy, and that is Child's favorite part.

In the field, there are orange pumpkins everywhere. Some are huge and some are tiny.

"Which one do you want?" asks Mom.

Child picks a small, round pumpkin with a curly vine. Her brother picks a big one that he can barely lift. Before they go home, they each drink a warm cup of apple cider.
